Personal Care Association of Nevada Code of Ethics – Summary

The Personal Care Association of Nevada (“PCAN” or “Association”) was founded with the intention of encouraging the development and the delivery of the highest quality of non-medical personal care, social and supportive services to the aged, infirmed and disabled.

In the process of bringing these essential services to those in need, the Association and its members seek to establish and retain the highest possible level of public confidence.

This Code of Ethics serves as a statement to the general public that the Association and its individual members stand for integrity and the highest ethical standards.

This Code of Ethics serves to inform members and the general public as to what are acceptable guidelines for ethical conduct for Nevada non-medical personal care agencies and their employees.

It is inherent in the promulgation of this Code of Ethics that the Association and its members covenant to protect and preserve the basic rights of their clients and to deal with them in an honest and ethical manner.

Finally, the Code of Ethics serves as notice to government officials that the Association expects its members to abide by all applicable laws and regulations.

It is a precondition of membership in the Association that each agency agrees to abide by the Code of Ethics and that failure to comply will result in expulsion from membership in the Association.

The Code of Ethics is intended to serve as a guideline to the PCA agencies in the following areas:

- A. Clients Rights and Responsibilities
- B. Relationships to Other Provider Agencies
- C. Responsibility to PCAN
- D. Fiscal Responsibilities
- E. Marketing and Public Relations
- F. Personnel
- G. Legislative
